

The Sea's Treasures

Daphne Lister

-  Warm-up Work in pairs. Say what you think are the sea's treasures. Look for images of four rare sea creatures on the Internet. What do they look like and why are they unique?

-  In swept the sea
With a swirl and a swish,
It shimmered and whispered,
"Choose what you wish."

-  And the sea showed its treasures
At the edge of the shore,
Shining bright pebbles
And shells by the score.

Long ribbons of seaweed
That shone gold and red,
"I'll share them, I'll share,"
The sea softly said.

|           |                                                        |
|-----------|--------------------------------------------------------|
| swept     | (here) pushed with force                               |
| swirl     | quick movement forming a circle                        |
| swish     | movement with a smooth, quiet sound                    |
| shimmered | shone with a soft light which seemed to shake          |
| whispered | spoke very quietly, using the breath and not the voice |

Appreciation

Read this line from the poem.

With a swirl and a swish,

The highlighted words begin with the same sounds. When you read the poem aloud, it sounds like music. This is called alliteration.

A. Work in pairs and find another example of alliteration in the poem. TC

B. By using inverted commas, the poet makes the sea seem like a person who is speaking. This is an example of personification where human qualities are given to a non-human thing. In this poem, who is the sea talking to? CT 21 CR
